Abstract:
Octavius Bull photographed the people, their homes, villages and activities in northwestern Chester County between 1894 and 1909. His views were distributed as amateur postcards.

Administrative Information

Acquisition Information:
The Octavius Bull collection of original photo postcards and glass plate negatives was donated to the Chester County Historical Society through the Estate of Caroline J. Bull in 1942.

Administrative History:
With the help of a grant from the Institute of Museum and Library Services awarded in 1997, the collection of 455 glass plate negatives were duplicated, indexed and made available to the public. The negatives were duplicated and reference prints were made by the Chicago Albumen Works.
in Housatonic, Massachusetts. The reference prints were housed in archival quality photograph albums by CCHS volunteers.

In 2010 - 2011, CCHS undertook a project to print the massive unidentified glass plate negative collection. All of the work was done by volunteer Mary Painter in the CCHS darkroom. Within those supposedly unidentified materials were 82 additional 4 x 5 glass plate negatives taken by Octavius Bull. They were easily recognized by his distinctive style and by subject matter.

The entire collection was digitized in 2017 by volunteer Shirley Johnson.

Biographical History

Octavius Bull was born in 1868 to Henry Heber and Emma Henderson Bull. Henry Bull was a successful Philadelphia stock broker who had been a captain of a troop of the Home Guard Regiment of Cavalry during the Civil War¹. Henry was one of the fifteen children of Levi and Ann Jacobs Bull. He was the grandson of Rev. Levi Bull a well-known and influential minister form northwestern Chester County who was the pastor and founder of St. Mary’s Church in Warwick and established St. Mark’s Church in Honeybrook and St. Andrews Church in Vincent Township².

Henry and Emma Bull’s family increased in 1871 with the birth of another boy, Heber. Just three years later Emma died at the age of 39. It may be around this time in 1874, that a formal portrait of Henry and his two sons was made. It shows two sober little boys, neatly dress, obviously of an affluent class. Tragedy struck the family again in 1879 when Henry Bull died at the age of 46³.

The two young boys, ages eleven and eight, may have continued living in Philadelphia with a guardian.

Octavius had been born with physical challenges, he had one leg shorter than the other and was slightly stunted in his growth. During this time period, people with physical challenges were not always accepted into the world of business and society. So young Octavius at about age 21 moved to the Bull family homestead, known as Mt. Pleasant, in rural E. Nantmeal Twp., where he lived with his aunt Julia Henderson Bull and her daughter, Caroline. His uncle, Thomas Kempis Bull passed away in 1893. Thomas Bull was an influential gentleman farmer and graduate of Dickinson College who had served three terms in the State legislature from 1846-1848. Heber, Octavius’ brother, went to his Uncle Samuel Octavius Bull’s farm in Albany, Texas, where he died after a brief illness in 1891⁴.

Octavius or “Ocie” as he was called, passed the hours by fishing in local streams and hunting with various gun clubs. Ocie was a revered member of the West Chester Gun Club and was memorialized with the following: “during the hunting season he was much in the field and no quail or pheasant was safe in front of his gun.” He was also remembered as an “ardent amateur photographer” who photographed the scenery and events of the area which he printed on postcard paper stock. It is not clear whether he received payment for the cards or gave them to his friends, however, many of these postcards can be found in family collections in the Elverson area. Bull marked his postcards with a rubber stamp that read: “O. Bull, photo., Elverson, Pa.”

Judging from his photographs, Ocie had a wide circle of friends, and took active part in community life. He photographed local baseball games, Decoration Day activities and Sunday School picnics. He was invited to photograph school classes at East Nantmeal high schools and area elementary schools. His friendships led him to document the homes and families of the Nantmeal – Warwick area. Naturally the activities of his cousin Caroline Bull, Aunt Julia and their friends were all a source for artistic photographic subjects. Jull Bull passed away at the age of 85 in 1907 from complications from diabetes.

Octavius died in 1909 from a stroke at the young age of 41. His funeral was held at Mt. Pleasant and he was buried with his parents in Philadelphia.

Collection Scope and Content:

The Octavius Bull collection consists of over 500 views of people, their homes, farms and businesses in northwestern Chester County and adjacent areas of Berks and Lancaster Counties. The photos were taken in the period between 1894 and 1909 and were printed on postcard photo paper.

This photographic paper was readily available to amateur photographers. It is not known if Octavius Bull sold the postcards or gave them to his subjects. He usually scratched a caption into the emulsion of his negative or inscribed them using ink on the right hand margin of the postcard. Some of the postcards bear his rubber stamp “O.Bull, photo, Elverson, Pa.”

Many of Octavius Bull’s photographs center around families, their homes and churches in the area surrounding Mt. Pleasant. These areas include Marsh, Elverson, Loag, Warwick Village, Glen Moore, Barneston and Wyebrook. The Joanna Heights area of Berks County is also featured. Naturally the visitors to Mt. Pleasant are photographed sitting on the porch, taking walks and relaxing in the hammock.

Bull also photographed area events like the Elverson Highlander’s baseball games, Decoration Day at St. Mary’s P.E. Church in Warwick, and Election Day voters coming to Union School. School children and local schoolhouses are frequent subjects.

Only a few businesses are featured including Hause’s Store, Warwick Mine, French Creek Mine and Hopewell Furnace are documented in Chester County and Birdsboro Iron and Steel in Berks County.

The landscape with all its features such as railroads, covered bridges, village streets, creeks and rock formations are documented as well. With scenes of fishing, hunting, swimming, boating and hiking. Bull’s photographic style captures people in their environment at candid moments.

Arrangement

Octavius Bull’s original photo postcards have been arranged by the photo archivist according to geographic location and subject matter. They are described in this guide and are also cataloged at folder level in the CCHS PastPerfect database.

Octavius Bull’s original glass plate negatives were rehoused and numbered by a group of students from the University of Delaware’s Winterthur Program in the 1970s. This numbering has been retained for the reference prints created. The collection has been given a collection level description in the PastPerfect database.

This guide contains an inventory of the original photo postcards with an inventory and index of the glass plate negatives.
